STORY OF MR. BOVENHOGUE.

I would premise that the gentleman who gave the following relation is a vorthy, intelgene and respectable man; that from the beginning of the year 1793 to the close of the year 1796, he commanded a ship and traded chiefly from Holland to Guernsey. His name is left with the Editor, and if any one will please to call on him, he will, I am sure, relate the story in a much more interesting manner than I can pretend to, and satisfy the most incredulous that it is no fiction,

In the year 1793, said Captain H. I was in Holland and had business with Mr. Bovenhogue, an opulent citizen of Schiedam, a town situated about 4 or 5 miles from Rotterdam on the canal that communicates with the Maese. He had in Schiedam a beautiful seat, and a very large distillery. William. stadt was at that time besieged by the French. One day sailing with him ip his yatch on the canal, we distinctly heard the cannonade between the town and the French army. Hark! said Mr. B. Do you hear the cannon? that sound is music to my ear. I hope in less than two days the French will be masters of Notterdam. Surely, said I, you cannot be scrious I am, said he, with quickness, Rather than the French should fail I could wish my daughter a beggar. This daughter was Mr. B's only child. Here, continued he, see this proclamation. The French want nothing from us. They only wish to knock off our chains, and they swear that the great nation shall never lay down their erms till they have planted the standard of liberty on the walls of China. These are fine words said I, but God forbid, they should ever plant their standard on the walls of Rotterdam.

Though Williamstadt at that time success fully resisted the French, yet it is well known that two years after, viz in January, 1795, they overran Holland; and Rotterdam, with the rest of the country, became their prey.

I was in Holland after this event, and again I had business with Mr. Boyenhogue. He agreed to meet we one day, at a certain hour, on the exchange at Rotterdam. I was punctual, but no Mr. Bovenhogue appeared .--Alas! he was in a dangeon! When I saw him a few days after, he was in a sad condition. His head was bound up, and his face bruised and discolored. I am ruined, said Mr. B as soon as he saw me. I am ruined by my friendship for the French. You you welf are a witness of my enthusiastic attachment to their cause before they entered my country -My zeal did not abate after they were marters of it I welcomed them to my house, and to my besom. It is not long since their commissary sent me a requisition for 18000 guilders. I immediately repaired to his quarters. Sir, said I, you have committed some mistake. Surely you know I was one of your party and facilitated, as far as in my power, your invasion of Holland. I know it well, said he, and expected before this time you, who as a patriot, would have made an offering to the great nation of double this sum on the altar of liberty. But you are a wavering patriot. I soon found remonstrances would be worse than useless. I paid him the money, and requested a certificate that I had advanced the French army the required sum; but no certificate could I obtain.

The commissary left us a few weeks ago. and another harpy took his place. On the day I appointed to meet you, I received a requisition for 40,000 guilders. I waited upon him and endeavored to convince him of his injustice, but as I could make no impression, I consented to pay if he would give me a certificate. At this he lost all patience. Sir, said he, I make no conditions. There is a guard which shall not leave you till you produce the money. I give you one hour and no more. Provoked by his insolence, I could not restrain some angry expressions-but I was soon stopped. Take him to the dungeon, said he, and there he shall lie till he becomes a reasonable man. The commissary left the room. The guard instantly began to strip mc. They left me scarce decent cloathing. I was then carried to the prison and thrust into a dungeon, with the vilest malefactors.

These wretches beat me with their iron handcuffs, because I could not pay the entrance money of their dark abode, and the bruises which you see on my head, and the soles, are the consequence of their barbarous treatment. In this dungeon, as the commissary prophesied, I soon became a reasonable man, and consented to pay the 40,000 guilders without requiring certificate or receipt.

My business at this time with Mr. Bovenhogue was to purchase gin. I took a quantity on board my ship and contracted for a number of pipes more, to be delivered at any time on a short notice. After making several trips to Guernsey I returned to Rotterdam for the gin. But, alas, Mr. B. was not to be found. I went to his house at Schiedam. It was occupied by a French officer. I enquired for my friend. The officer had never heard his name This gentleman treated me with great civility, and regretted he could give me no information. He informed me the troops in the neighborhood had been there but a little while. The detachment we succeeded, said seu mio town to get intelligence of Mr. 1 erto del Roy.

I went to his distillery in a boat. It was occupied as a barrack, and all I could learn about Mr. B. was, that he had been drafted as a soldier, and sent, with other conscripts, to fight, nobody knew where, the battles of liberty in the armies of the great nation! Mr. B. has never been heard of since.

I will only add, that his wish has been accomplished—his daughter is a beggar.

FOREIGN.

(VIA PHILADEPHIA.)

LONDON, July 9.

Of the operations which preceded the surrender of the army of Dupon, the following lew particulars are contained in private accounts:

"The Spanish General having received intelligence that a corps of 8000 men, was on its march to join gen. Dupont, resolved to attack him before the junction should take place, and the action commenced, as we already stated, on the 20th ult. It was most obstinately contested for some time, but at length the patriots prevailed, and Dupont was completely defeated, with very great loss. Gen. Castanos was preparing to attack him the next morning, when gen. Dupont; in order to save his whole army from destruction, proposed to surrender. A negociation immediately took place, and the whole of the army, including 8000 men that were on their march to join him, surrendered prisoners of war with all the artillery, magazines, &c. So that, to use the words of gen. Castanos, in his official account of this glorious victory, "there is not now a single Frenchman in arms in the whole of Andahisia."

We are enabled to add, from authentic information, some further particulars not mentioned in the above brief dispatches .-Dupont, some time before the battle, had retreated from Andujar to Baylen, and the former town became the head quarters of the patriot army. Measures had been taken previously to the 19th to secure all the passes in the enemy's rear, so that his retreat was rendered impracticable. This service was entrusted to two very able officers and armed peasantry, who daily harrassed the French, narrowed the space from which they derived sustenance and reduced them to the greatest distress. Gen. Escalanve commanded at La Carolina, 4 Spanish leagues north east from Bayren, on the road to Madrid and thus cut off the return of the enemy to that city. Gen. Reding occupied as nother very important post on the right of the French and a chain of communication being kept between these generals and the commander in chief Don Caszanos, the enemy was surrounded on every side. The force under the immediate command of Dupont, was 12,000 men, but reinforcements to the amount of 6000 were advancing to endeavor to join him, when gen. Castanos gave him battle. The Spanish army was out in motion on the 19th and the battle commenced the 20th. The conflict was long and obstinate. We have not yet received a ny authentic account of the killed and wounded, but the loss must have been considerable. Dupont exhausted in vair, all the resources which tactical skill and long experience in warfare enabled him in his perilous situation to call forth. At last, to save the wreck of his army from total annihilation. he proposed to capitulate, and, as is stated above, surrendered to gen. Castanos.

There is a circumstance stated in the official accounts which deserve particular notice. The whole of the French army has not obtained the same terms: the forces under Dupont, which were defeated " are prisoners of war,"-those which were not engaged in the battle are to "evacuate the peninsula by sea."

By letters dated St. Andero, the 1st Aug. it appears, that a nobleman had arrived there who had escaped from Madrid on the 25th July. He says, that there were not above 12,000 French with Joseph Bonaparte, at Madrid; that they were fortifying the Reteiro, and that the city was the most afflicting spectacle possible. Several of the new ministers had made their escape from Madrid, and as the Duke D'Infantado was not there, it was hoped that he also had escaped.

Official advices have been this morning received from gen. Castanos' camp, up to the 17th ult. These state, that gen. Castanos having made all his preparations, and determined on his plan of attack, marched to Andujar on the 15th. Gen. Reding was to pass the river above Manjibar, and attack Baylen. The Marquis de Compigny was to pass at Villa Nova, and support gen. Reding. Gen. Castanos, with the 3d division very footsteps of these traitors; go, and a and reserve, was to attack the bridges in venge, in their blood, the our ages which front. Lieut. Col. Cruz was to pass the river at Montreolege, and to occupy the Siethe officer, have joined the army of the Rhine. ra. Colonel Valde Pinos was to occupy Pu- you. Do you not hear the grouns of those

On the 15th gen. Castancy took h tion and cannonaded the French at V Nuova, and killed about 200 of them. Col. Cruz was obliged to retire, by perior numbers of the enemy. Gen. ing, with about 3000 men, attacked the env my, who had about 5000, completely be them, and too two pieces of cannon; but from want of provisions was obliged tire to Manjibar.

On the 17th, after a council of w was determined to order the Marqi Compigny, to join General Reding, an was determined that Baylen should be tacked with wo divisions, and a feigned tack to be made on Andujar with the thin division.

By a letter intercepted from General De. pont to the Duke De Rovico, it appears that he was in great distress for provisions, a was in hopes of a reinforcement. The particulars naturally led to the glorious vents which followed from the 17th 20th.

The surrender of Dupont to the Spate ards will, we trust, be speedily followed in the surrender of Junot to the British, S Arthur Wellesley, as we stated yesterday has landed, and was within two days man of Lisbon. But it is said that he didne land at Figueira, as it was supposed he would; he called there for the marines who had been debarked there some days before, and proceeded immediately to a place, Macrina, according to some accounts, be tween Peniche and Mefra, where he land and immediately began his march to Listo This seems to have been a better point in effect a landing than Figuera; it shorten the march very considerably, and enable sir Arthur to commence operations against Junot sooner. His first object of attail will be the forts, the possession of which by the British will secure our fleet a free ad mission into the Tagus, and consequently the power of paying a visit to the Russi

Information was yesterday received the landing of Sir ARTHUR WELLESLEY with all his force. The landing did not take place at Figuras, as was generally expected, but between Peniche and Maira; the latter is not more than 40 miles from Lisbon. Sir Arthur's force is stated to amount to 14,000 men. It is said, that he has been joined by that part of the Portuguese amy which had assembled at Coimbra. Important, and we hope grateful news, may be hourly expected from that quarter.

The supreme junta of Oporto, acting for the whole of Portugal, we are informed, have requested to be supplied from this country with 30,000 stand of arms, and £300,000 in specie. 🖗

FROM THE SEVILLE GAZETTE

TO THE ANDALUSIANS, After the surrender of the French Army in the lower parts of Sierra Morena.

VALLIANT ANDALUSIANS!

YOUR breasts have caught the spark of patriotism, and in a few days it kindled the fire which has destroyed the oppressor of the nation.

You determined to be free; and, in a moment, you had a tutelar government, and an army eager for battle and for triumph.

Those legions of Vandals, which, for 1 short time, surprised some of your towns, and delivered them up to pillage; those barbarians, puffed up with the victories obtained over ill-united nations, and who, loaded with plunder of Europe, were march ing to carry desolation through the beautiful plains watered by the Betis have already felt the power of your lovaity and attachment to your country and religion.

Valiant Andalusians! yours is the glory of Marengo, of Gena and of Austerlitz The laurels which wreathed the brows of May immortality be the lot of there, who has renewed in Sierra Morena the exploits of Pabius Maximus. Our children will say : Castanos triumphed over the French, and his glory did not fill the houses of our fathers with mourning. May the wreath of victory crown those brave warre ors who have overthrown the fierce oppressors of humanity! May the enlightened sovernment te forever blessed, which has defended our rights, and prepared our tiumphs!

But you are not only Andalusians, you are Spaniards, My, Sons of the Betis; flyth unite with your prothers of the Ebro, ofthe Duero, and of the Xucar; fly to break the fetters of the captives of the Tagus, of the Manzanares, and of the Llobregat! Go, and erase from the Spanish soil the sheltered by a cowardly and feeble govern ment, they did not hesitate to how upon who fell on the 2d of May? Do yound

IMPORTANT.

A merchant of this city, handed us, this forenoon, a letter from his correspondent at Cadiz, containing the following highly pleasing intelligence.

CADIZ, Aug. 26, 1808. "The British ships of war in this quarter and particularly off here, have received orders from the Admiralty to discharge all the American seamen on board of their respective vesseis, and in consequence a great many have obtained their discharge and come on shore here; this you may state as a fact, as I can youch for the truth of it, having conversed with many of them since their liberation—this looks well.

"Our vessels navigating in this quarter eights of a quart. are treated politely by the English, and no obstacle is thrown in the way of our trade, which is admissible. This port being now open, all neutrals are admitted to a free entry—the blockade is raised, and some of station entirely. Lord Collingwood leaves here in a few days, to proceed to Barcelona, in Catalonia, which place, after being for a long time in possession of the French, is at Schr. Experience, Persons, length said to be entirely clear of them. It is computed that the French have already lost in this country an hundred thousand men in killed and prisoners. In all the actions with the French the Spaniards have behaved with great gallantry, and they begin to find that their enemies are not invincible, yet it is said they are some of those soldiers who conquered at Marengo, Austerlitz and Jena."

Yesterday the District Court of the U. S. resumed its session in this town, when his honor the Judge pronounced the CON-STITUTIONALITY of the Embarge Salem paper.

Extract of a letter from Cadiz, dated August 2d, 1808.

"The French are beaten in every part of Spain, and are flying in every direction.-God is on our side. There are upwards of thirty thousand French prisoners of war now in this city, among whom are several generals; five of their ships of the line and one frigate, are also in our possession,-The treacherous tyrant will be compelled to restore our young monarch. IN THE COURT OF CHANCERY FOR THE RICHMOND DISTRICT. SEPTEMBER TERM, 1808. MARKS US MORRIS.

In this case, which involved a question of usury, the chancellor decided that where a man comes into a court of Equity, to be relieved from a deed of trust, founded upon an usurious transaction and the usury is tached to the paragraph. But the rumor is proved by the testimony of witnesses, he shall be relieved not only from the interest rescinding those of the 11th November, have but from the debt. In such a case, the debeen long ago republished in the United cision of a court of Equity, the chancellor said, will be precisely the same with the dever. But the following very late letter, puts cision of a Court of Law. In both courts the contract, as well as the security, is considered as void.

But if the borrower is unable to prove the usury, except by the defendant's answer, then the act of Assembly which speaks of suits in chancery, for the purpose of discobe obliged to return the principal money borrowed.

Valuable Family Medicines. The following well known genuine Medicines, from Hannah Lee's patent Medicine store, New York, are constantly kept for sale by James Kennedy fen. BOOKSELLER, KING-STREET. And no where else in Alexandria.

Prevention better than Cure.

TOR the prevention and care of Bilions and Malignant Fevers, is recommended HAHN'S ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS, prepared (only) at Lee's patent Medicine store, No. 56 Maiden lane.

This medicine bas, for nine years past, been attended with a degree of success highly gratefid to the inventor's feelings, in several parts of the West Indies, and the southern states, particularly in Baltimore, Petersburg, Richand Norfolk, Edenton, Wilmington, Charles-The testimeny of a number of persons in each of the above places has been adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Pacts of this conclusive nature, speak more in favor of a medicine than columns of pompous enlogy founded on more assertion could do. Lis not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infattible cure, but the inventor has eveay possible reason that can result from extensive experience, for believing that a dose of these pills, taken once every two weeks, during the prevalence of our bikious fevers, will prove an infallible preventative-and further, that in the early stages of these diseases, their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate, and beyond the power of common remedics.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation, and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off supefluous bile, and prevent its morbid secretions-to restore and amend the appetite, produce a free perspiration, and thereby prevent coles, which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold, if taken on its first appearance. They are celebrated for removing habitual costive ness, sickness at the stomach and a severe head ache, and ought to be taken by all perso is on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably enicacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved by every sea-

From one to three or four of the pills are a dose which may be repeated as circumstances require.

In sickly times or places, a dose should be taken every formight, and if there is reason to apprehend personal danger, it may be taken once a week.

Certificate of Mr Wm. Devenney. During the last nine years, I have been in the habit of using Huhn's Antibilious Pills. prepared by the late Mr. Lee, whenever colds, headache, or cosuveness have rendered medicine necessary; in these cases a single dose has uniformly removed my headache, and has generally been found sufficient to remove every symptom of a cold if taken on its first appearance. Induced by the benefit received, I have for years past recommended them to mafiv of my friends, and I have the pleasure to inform you, they have inviriably succeeded in removing the above complaints.

The following new and valuable Medicine, just received and for sale as above.

(Price, Two Dollars per bottle.) Dr. Tissot's celebrated Gout and Rheumatic Drops.

NOTHING is of more importance han the preservation of health—this common lacep remark however is too often forgotten, whilst we are active and strong-and prevention of pain, which is superior to its cure, is not sufficiently attended to by any description of persons. Among those disorders which require the most early and unremitting efforts to eradicate and overcome, none have a strong er claim upon our notice than the Gout, Rheu-Jeight hundred and two. matism, Lumbago, Weakness of the Joints, Sprains, Gleets, the Stone and Gravel, the Cramp and every species of Rheumatic Pains from whatever cause they may have originated-and hence every relief which can be oitministered is too valuable to be forgotten. Those persons whose avocations peculiarly expose them to colds, &c. cannot be too anxious lways to possess immediate aid. Sea-faring persons, travellers, &c. ought constantly to complete set of Tools, a Dwellir g House in carry with them that medicine which will counteract the unpleasans effects of their perilous duties, and especially those pains to which their situation must expose them. To those who reside in or visit the West-Indies, and ther warm climates, theywill be found upon trial to ecovey the most lasting service and will gradually destroy all tendency to disease the human frame, and preserve health in vigor. Although a great variety of prescriptions have been published to care the disorders enumerated above, none has yet equalled the GUUT AND RHEUMATIC DROPS of Dr. TISSOT, which are celebrated throughout the European continent, and whose unbounded benefits are fully authenticated by certificates already published of gentlemen so well known in America, being of the first consequence in the state of Maryland: Ceneral Charles Ridgely, of Hampton; John Gibson, Esq. one of the directors of the Farmers' Bank of Maryland; John Macubbin, Esq. Mrs. Macubbin, his wife; and Mrs. Ryan, of Calton-Certificate of Mr. Thomas Keiso, butcher.

About three weeks since I was most violently attacked with Rheumatic pains throughout my whole frame, in so severe a manner as not to be able to turn in my bed without assistance proceeding as I suppose from a severe cold to being advised by a friend to apply Dr. Tissot's Gout and Rheumatic Drops, I accordingly obtained from the agents Messrs. George Dobbin and Murphy, two bottles, the applica ston of which, under God, have perfectly re tiored me to health. I am therefore induced with confidence to recommend this medicine as a certain cure for the above disorder.

THOMAS KELSO. Baltimore, July 22d, 1806.

Certificate of Mr. Thomas Campbell, Harness

It would be an act of injustice to withhold my testimony of the salutary effects of Doctor Tissot's Gout and Rheumatic Drops, as I have experienced a very unequivocal instance of their virtues and efficacy. I was afflicted with two severe attacks of what is usually called Dead Palsy, from which I partially recovered. but was obliged to use crutches to aid me in walking when I left home; to this were joined violent Rheumatic pains, the result of the affliction, and I had feared the disorder would accompany me through life; but providentialy was recommended to apply at George Dobbin and Murphy's for Dr. Tissot's Drops, and after using only one bottle, found myself perfeetly liberated from my disorder, and am now, thank God, as free from pain as if I never bad been afflicted. Finding this medicine operate so powerfully on myself, I determined to apply it internally to my child, a boy only eleven months old, who was then is duced almost to a skeleton with the Bowel Complaint; after administering it: four times to him, his complaint was entirely removed, and he is now re covering his strength with great rapidity.
